THE SODOR STEAM TEAM

Hello, Percy!

Percy is Thomas' best friend and can be found puffing all over Sodor delivering the mail.

Hello, James!

James likes to be a Really Splendid Engine and takes great care of his shiny, red paintwork. He hates getting dirty!

Hello, Nia!

Nia is from Kenya in Africa. She is always eager to help and she is one of the most adventurous of all the engines.

Point to your favourite engine.

Hello, Rebecca!

The newest member of the Steam Team, Rebecca, is a strong and powerful tender engine who loves to laugh.

Hello, Gordon!

Gordon pulls the heavy Express. He is a powerful member of the Steam Team but always helps out the smaller engines.

Hello, Emily!

Emily is kind and always the first to help a friend, even if she does sometimes like to tell others what to do!

Hello, Thomas!

Thomas loves being a Really Useful Engine but sometimes he just can't help getting into trouble.

FOLLOW THE TRACKS

Whoosh around the Island of Sodor
and learn all about Thomas'
busy day.

Say the answers
out loud each time you land on a question.

Toot! Toot!
Let's go!

First stop is the Steamworks.

How many steam engines can you see?

What is Thomas picking up from the farm?

Clickety-clack!
Over the hill. What colour is Thomas' funnel?

Red signal!

How many sheep can you spot?

Last stop, the Quarry.

What has Thomas
come to collect?

What a busy day!

Bye!

THE FASTEST RED ENGINE ON SODOR ▶▶

James was a very fast engine. He loved being the fastest red engine on Sodor. But sometimes he went too fast.

“Screeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeechhhh!”

James' brakes skidded to a stop alongside Emily at Knapford Station.

“Stopping sharply like that is bad for your brakes,” said Emily.

“I have to break hard sometimes, Emily,” said James. “I am the fastest red engine on Sodor!”

Thomas pulled into the next platform. “Fastest red engine, are you?” he said. “What about Rosie?”

“Rosie's not fast! She's not red either,” chuffed James.

“She's red now,” smiled Thomas, pulling away. “I just saw her.”

“Like me, red? Splendid, red?” James called out. But Thomas had already left in a puff of steam.

Later, at the shunting yard James was coupled up to the Troublesome Trucks.

"I'm too Splendid to pull trucks!" groaned James, puffing out of the yard.

Just when he thought his day couldn't get any worse, he spotted a flash of red in the distance – Rosie!

James' brakes screeched to a slow stop as he pulled up alongside the newly painted engine.

"You really are red..." frowned James.

"Yes, what do you think?" asked Rosie, proudly.

There may be two red engines on Sodor now, but James was going to prove he was the fastest red engine!

"Want to race?" James asked Rosie.

Without waiting for an answer, James pumped his pistons and set off down the track.

James whooshed ahead. Clickerty-clack, clickerty-clack.
Rosie chuffed close behind. Whirr, whirr, whirr, whirr.

Soon the two red engines were side by side.

The signal turned red. Rosie slammed on her brakes and came to a quick stop. But James' brakes made another loud noise.

“Screeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeechhhh!”

He couldn't slow down and went right through the signal.

“James, STOP!”

called out Rosie. But James couldn't stop. He was racing further down the track straight towards Henry.

With one last pull on the brakes, James finally slowed down, just missing Henry's trucks.

James was shocked. What was wrong with his brakes?

“I don't think you should be racing,”

Rosie said, sternly. She took the Troublesome Trucks from James and ordered him to get checked over at the Steamworks.

James grumpily agreed. But, when he pulled up inside the Steamworks, his brakes didn't screech. He slowed to a smooth stop. So before anyone even knew he was there, James turned around and raced away.

"Ha, my brakes are fine!" said James, and he whooshed back down the Mainline. He soon forgot all about being careful and picked up speed.

"Wheee! Woo hoo!"

sang out James, flying up Gordon's Hill.

But then there was trouble. As James started to go down the hill, his brakes wouldn't work at all!

James couldn't stop and was going faster, faster, faster. James flew past Gordon.

He steamed through Knapford Station. All the while, going faster, faster, faster. With no way to stop and heading right for the Sheds, the Driver and Fireman jumped out of James' cab. James shut his eyes tight and...

CRASH!

...James burst right through the back of the Sheds and brought the roof down! The Fat Controller was furious.

"Sir," said Rosie, pulling up to the Sheds. "James had problems with his brakes. He went to the Steamworks to have them fixed."

When The Fat Controller found out that James had left without getting his brakes checked he was even more cross!

"Sorry, Rosie," said James, quietly. "I should have known another red engine would give good advice."

"At least you proved one thing today," smiled Rosie. "You really were the fastest red engine on Sodor."

BIG WORLD ADVENTURES

When a racing car from Australia visits Sodor, he tells Thomas all about his travels. Now Thomas wants to travel the world and have an adventure, too.

How to play:

- Each player places a counter or a button on START.
- On your turn, flip a coin. If it lands heads up, move forward two spaces. If it lands tails up, move forward one space.
- If you land on a friend or a flag you can move forward one extra space.
- The first one to reach Ace in Australia, wins!

THOMAS AND THE DRAGON

It was a bright, sunny day. Thomas the Tank Engine was chuffing along the Chinese railway with his friend, Yong Bao.

"You're so lucky to be here in China for the New Year," Yong Bao told Thomas.

Thomas noticed some people carrying pretty, red lanterns.

"Those are lanterns for the New Year party," said Yong Bao. "But do you know what the best part about New Year is...?"

Thomas chuffed as hard as he could to keep up with Yong Bao.

"... the DRAGON!"

"The what?!" Thomas called after him, but Yong Bao had disappeared into a tunnel in a puff of steam.

Moments later, Thomas caught up with Yong Bao at the coal hopper.

"What did you say was the best part of New Year?" asked Thomas. Thomas thought he had heard him say dragon. But surely there wouldn't be a dragon at the party?

"The dragon is the best part," replied Yong Bao. "Usually I take the dragon to the big square, but as you're a guest, I think you should have the honour!"

Thomas did not like the sound of this one little bit.

In fact, the more Thomas thought about the dragon, the more he began to worry.

“Don’t dragons breathe out smoke?” he thought.
“And ... fire?!”

When Yong Bao caught up with Thomas later in the day, Thomas was looking terrified.

“I really, really don’t want to take the dragon to the party!” Thomas blurted out. “I’m sure it is a great honour but will you pull the dragon, Yong Bao?”

Yong Bao looked sad for a moment, but he agreed. “Okay, then you can take the lion.”

“The lion?!” said Thomas, shocked.

The morning of the party, Thomas headed to Yong Bao's shed. He was coupled up with two coaches, An An and Lin Yong.

"Phew!" said Thomas, pulling off down the line. "I'm glad I am pulling you. I guess I don't have to take the lion after all."

"Oh yes you do, Thomas," sung An An.

"Oh yes you do, Thomas," sung Lin Yong.

Suddenly Thomas felt scared again.

He spent the rest of the day steaming from station to station, picking up passengers.

Clickerty-clack,
Clickerty-clack,

Thomas had a very busy day. But he couldn't stop worrying about lions and dragons.

Just as it was starting to get dark, Thomas pulled up alongside Yong Bao in the town square. It was filled with glowing lanterns.

"Wow, this party is amazing!" said Thomas, feeling happy there were no lions or dragons around. "I'm sorry I didn't bring the lion."

"But you did bring the lion, Thomas," said Yong Bao, smiling.

Two passengers got out of Thomas' carriage. They started pulling on two parts of a costume – a lion costume!

Thomas couldn't believe it. It wasn't a real lion after all!

"Look, here comes the dragon!" said Yong Bao.

Thomas gasped and closed his eyes tight. Then he heard a cheer. He opened one eye. And then the other...

The dragon was a beautiful, long costume, carried by people at the party.

“Of course not!” smiled Yong Bao. “What did you think?”

Thomas blushed and felt very silly.

“Maybe next time I feel scared, I will talk to someone. Then it might not be so scary after all!” Thomas thought to himself.

As the dragon was marched around the square, drums boomed and fireworks lit up the sky.

“That’s what I was trying to tell you, Thomas,” said Yong Bao. “The best thing about New Year is...”

“The dragon!”
smiled Thomas.

MEET CARLOS

Carlos may be small but he is a very strong engine. He lives in Mexico and is proud to be a good friend to everyone he meets.

Fun facts

- ★ Paintwork: Black with red lining
- ★ Number: 903
- ★ Carlos loves... to make people happy
- ★ Carlos is... strong. He was the winner of the strength competition when the very first Great Railway Show was held.

Football is the most popular sport in Mexico.

Funny Faces

Carlos is always smiling. Use a pencil to give Carlos a happy face, and then see how he looks with some other expressions.

- crayons or felt tips
- ribbon
- sticky tape

How to make:

- Ask a grown-up to help you cut out the flags on the opposite page.
- On the blank flags, use your crayons or pens to design new flags. You can copy some of the flags on this page or create your own ideas.
- Use your sticky tape to stick the top of the flags along the ribbon, leaving a bit of space between each flag. Then you'll have your own flags-of-the-world bunting to hang in your room!

THE BIG FREEZE

1

One cold, snowy day
The Fat Controller tells the engines that coal is running low.

2

The freezing weather means that coal deliveries can't get through.

3

Later that day, all engines are ordered back to the Sheds before their coal runs out.

4

Thomas has other ideas. He wants to drop his passengers off first.

5

But his coal runs out and he gets stuck in a siding.

6

Poor Thomas shivers all night outside in the icy winds.

“It’s f-f-f-freezing!”

7

The next morning, the sun warms up Sodor. Diesel can finally deliver the coal.

8

Now all the engines are back on the go! “Diesel, you’re our hero!” say Annie and Clarabel.
